TCD cuts all ties with Apartheid Israel

The Ireland-Palestine Solidarity Campaign (IPSC) today welcomed Trinity College Dublin's historic decision to sever institutional links with all Israeli institutions and universities, calling it a "landmark step in academic rejection of Apartheid Israel's regime of occupation, ethnic cleansing, human rights abuses, war crimes, and genocide against the Palestinian people."

TCD has agreed to fully divest from all Israeli companies, cut ties with Israeli suppliers, and refuse any new research or academic collaborations with Israeli institutions. The decision came after a vote by the university's Board, following recommendations from the Taskforce set up in the wake of the student Gaza solidarity encampment in May 2024. The Taskforce was clear: Israel's repeated violations of human rights and international law — including those outlined by the International Court of Justice — mean Trinity can no longer maintain institutional links with the apartheid state.

TCD is now one of a growing number of universities responding to the call from the Palestinian Campaign for the Academic and Cultural Boycott of Israel (PACBI), committing to cut ties with Israeli institutions. The role of Israeli universities in providing both ideological cover and material support for apartheid and war crimes is well documented, and the case for academic boycott is clearer than ever.

IPSC Chairperson Zoë Lawlor said:

"We welcome this landmark step in academic rejection of Apartheid Israel's regime of occupation, ethnic cleansing, human rights abuses, war crimes, and genocide against the Palestinian people, and we call for more Irish universitues to follow suit.

"The IPSC pays tribute to the student activists, academics, TCD staff, trade unionists, taskforce members, and all who pushed the university authorities to take this huge step.

"Trinity will now stand on the right side of history, as it did with South African Apartheid in the past, but it is nevertheless disappointing that it took so long to get to this position – and we echo the view of TCD Students' Union that it remains disappointing that Trinity has not withdrawn from ongoing projects involving Israeli partners who provide military technology and training that will run until 2029."

"Nonetheless, we celebrate each and every step towards de-normalising relations with the genocidal, Apartheid state of Israel. We call on the Irish government and the EU to pay heed to the changing climate, and to act to bring an end to all Irish state complicity with the apartheid regime."
